

Global Standard for Collaborative Business Relationship Management
ISO 44001

In March 2017, the International Standards Organization (ISO-Geneva) issued Standard 44001 to enable organizations to improve collaborative business relationships – both within and between organizations. The standard includes a framework used to deploy best practices for creating a system of collaboration that will strengthen inter-organizational value creation, internal teamwork, and trust-building.

Foundation of Collaborative Excellence

The Standards were developed by practitioners around the world to produce a high impact system:

- Best Operating Outcomes to improve productivity & performance by creating strategic, cultural, and operational alignments;
- Common Language & Framework for evaluation of the operating practices of an organization, network, alliance or value chain; and
- System of Metrics & Standards to define operating excellence regardless of national laws, language or industry sector.

25 % Increases in Competitive Advantage

Collaborative professionals realized that best practices doubled or even tripled the chances of operating success. Operational performance and competitive advantage displayed improvement in the range of 25% or more -- as measured by speed, effective use of resources, lower employee turnover, and achievement of on-time-on-budget delivery.¹

Organizations that will be affected	ISO 44001 Standard Applies to
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Businesses (small/medium/large) • Governments (all jurisdictions) • Non-Government & Non-Profits • Educational Institutions • Supply/Value Chains & Franchises 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Internal & Cross-Functional Teams • Project Management • Complex Integrations • Business Collaborations • Multiple Partner Relationships

Realm of ISO 44001 Standards

The International Collaborative Leadership Institute offers learning & development programs giving your leadership team capabilities to gain competitive advantage and ISO 44001 Certification.

Contact us for more information on getting started with ISO 44001
Robert@ICLIInstitute.org
 +1-239-537-6441

Proven Standards and Practices

Across the globe, senior executives have expressed a deep desire to form more collaborative relationships internally and with customers, to establish better alliances, and improve the competitive value of supply chains and networks. 44001 provides a solid framework for successful collaborative excellence.

Benefits of Adopting ISO 44001	Risks of Not Adopting ISO 44001
Business & technology are highly dependent on cooperation. 44001 provides a tried-and-true foundation for building collaborative business relationships including internal resiliency and nimble value chains. Organizations with foresight can attract and link up with the best alliance partners, and attract/retain the best employees, thus creating the most powerful creation and flow of value.	Business: In today's fast-moving networked business world, early adopters will join forces, rapidly capturing market share and realizing superior profits. 2nd and 3rd rate competitors will pick among leftover unprepared late-adopters. Not-For-Profits: Donors and community foundations will require 44001 Certification before releasing funds.

¹ These results have been documented by Robert Porter Lynch, founder of International Collaborative Leadership Institute along with several other studies by the Association of Strategic Alliance Professionals.